

Children of St. Petersburg

What we have done in 2023

Children of St. Petersburg have been helping families of labour migrants and refugees since 2012

Our programs are a safety island for children and their parents.
Here kids are not afraid to be themselves, speak a new language and make friends

Have taught Russian language to 235 children

- This number includes children who attended courses more than 6 months and studied more than 72 h
- Our programs are low threshold, we work with the most vulnerable families, excluded from the education system. In order for 235 children to complete the course, we had to process more than 520 applications from families

- Age of kids – 5-17
- On 15 education points in different districts, on each – 2-4 times a week, in small groups up to 10 kids, and online
- 80 volunteers held the classes regularly

Helped 120 kids enroll in school

- Accompanied until enrollment in school
- Called, filed applications and went together to schools, education departments and other institutions
- Explained what documents are needed and what needs to be done right now

The vast majority of parents who contact us try to get their child into school immediately upon arrival. However, there are complex cases:

Girl, 9 y.o., has never attended school. We taught her Russian and pre-school help, she attended summer camps, we motivated her parents to enroll her to school, called the Education department. And finally the girl went to school!

Provided consultations for 302 people

- Most applicants needed advice on more than one topic
- Problems we solved: access to school education, school dropout, access to additional education, receiving humanitarian aid, medical and social assistance
- Online and by phone

Provided support groups for 82 women and social assistance for 73 women

- While the goal of the groups is to lower the level of domestic violence, we discuss various other topics, such as bullying at school and getting social help

Carried out in-city camps for 272 kids.
Camps are:

- Intensive preparation for school
- Emotional Intelligence Program
- Program on Nonviolent Communication and Personal Boundaries
- Live action role-playing games
- Excursions, museums, walks
- Creative and theatrical activities
- Open days for parents

3 winter camps for 50 kids

3 spring camps for 72 kids

5 summer camps for 120 kids

Spring and summer retreats for 30 teenagers

And, of course, celebrated the New Year 2024 together with our 187 students

Enrollment in classes and consultations are open all year round
